..An incredible bounty of produce! Thank you for feeding us so well.

We greatly enjoyed our first CSA experience...it was interesting, fun, and sometimes challenging to figure out what to do with all of those veggies.

Thanks so much for a great growing season. See you next year.

The food is amazing. The farm is wonderful to visit. It's worth every penny.

People who know the garden in which their vegetables have grown and know that the garden is healthy will remember the beauty of the growing plants... Such a memory involves itself with the food and is one of the pleasures of eating.

Community Supported Agriculture

HOPE'S EDGE FARM
HOPE, MAINE

In Japan where the concept of Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) was first conceived, the word used to describe it is "teikei". The literal translation of "teikei" is "relationship" or "partnership." Its philosophical translation, however, is "food with the farmer's face." This translation becomes clear when one begins to understand that CSAs offer both consumer and grower the opportunity to reconnect with one another, and in so doing redevelop relationships around the root of all culture: food.

About Hope's Edge Farm

Comprised of 100 acres of open fields and mixed woodlands, Hope's Edge Farm is located in Northwest Hope. Historically this land was home to three generations of the Morse family who, up until the mid 1980's, ran one of the preeminent dairy farms in the region. In 1997 Holly Miller purchased the land and soon recognized that the land needed more attention than she was able to give it. In 2002 she invited me to lease some of the land and buildings in order to make it once again a working farm. This agreement between Holly and I marked the birth of Hope's Edge CSA making this 2012 season our 10th anniversary year. Although not certified, we at Hope's Edge Farm are committed to organic/biodynamic practices. My experience using Biodynamic farming methods exceeds 20 years. Finally, we pledge that no agricultural chemicals have been used on this land since 1997.

What does it mean to be a shareholder?

As a member of Hopes Edge CSA you will be purchasing a share of the harvest. By paying for your share in advance, you are underwriting the harvest for the entire season and are entitled to a weekly share of the local, fresh, seasonal, unadulterated produce. As the farmers, it is our responsibility to work with nature to provide a beautiful and bountiful harvest. Nature, however, can be fickle and in a season of weather extremes even our best efforts may be hampered. Therefore, by purchasing a share, you not only share in the bounty but also share in the risk. Having said this, however, under "normal" weather conditions there is much to share.

Pick-up Options & Cost

Our season runs for 19 to 20 weeks beginning the third week of June and ending at the end of October. On-farm pick-up days are Tuesday or Friday. Pick-up hours are flexible. We also offer a Monday option with delivery to Rockland. (Note: the number of Monday shares is limited. Please sign up early.) We offer two share sizes: a HALF SHARE option intended to feed 2 adults and a child or a FULL SHARE for larger families or veggie lovers. Share prices are listed on the attached sign-up form. We do offer a limited sliding scale fee and we can accommodate payment arrangements to fit your budget.
